

Inspiring Student Achievement through Academic Competition

Challenges of growth focus of fall workshops

More than 90 PSIA school directors and educators from the Austin/San Antonio area gathered at the PSIA Fall Workshop held at Our Lady of Perpetual Help School in Selma to discuss the changes and challenges of the 2004-05 academic competition year.

A primary focus of the six PSIA workshops held throughout Texas this summer and fall centered on meeting the challenge our young organization faces as larger numbers of schools and individuals choose to participate in this comprehensive academic program. With entries at the state level exceeding 1600 at each of the two state meets held at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth this spring, the need has become imperative to find ways to continue providing a challenging program to as many children as possible without jeopardizing tournament feasibility.

Major strategies for prolonging individual advancement directly from district to state came from the State Advisory Board meeting held in June. A list of rule changes expected to balance district alignment and relieve overcrowding at the district and state meets are listed in brief as follows:

• CLASSIFICATION AND ALIGNMENT: "A" schools shall consist of an average of 24 or fewer students per grade level in grades one through eight. Enrollment in grades 1-8 shall be no more than 192 students. A "AA" school shall consist of an average of 25 or more students per grade level in grades one through eight. "A" schools may opt to participate in the "AA" classification. Currently, we have 10 "AA" and 12 "A" districts; so we expect to see another revision in alignment for the 2005-06 school year, in order to maintain 50/50 ratio of participating schools

• DISTRICT ALIGNMENT: Minimum of 6 schools in each district. Maximum will be dependent on the number of entries and campus size.

• ADVANCING TO STATE: Only one student will advance at each grade level in Creative Writing and Storytelling. Two will continue to advance in all other contests. The 1st Alternate ONLY in each contest will be eligible to take the place of a qualifying student unable to attend the State Meet.

With these measures in effect, we expect to be able to continue to provide the top students in each of 18 contests at each grade level the ability to advance directly from District to State competition.

Praise for District Directors

Without the generous and dedicated people who come forward to direct and host meets across the state, this PSIA extracurricular program could not exist. We give tribute to these and many others who work to provide an outstanding and memorable educational experience for their children through PSIA.

These are just a few of the directors we were able to capture on camera at the fall workshops this year.

Inspiring Student Achievement
Through Academic Competition

Teachers in South Texas meet at Incarnate Word Academy in Brownsville to learn about inspiring students through PSIA academic competition.

A scene during lunch at Christ the King Cathedral School - preparing for an exciting academic year.

Homeschooler, Pam Kriegel, representing Brownsville HOPE, shared with Valley participants her strategies for preparing her son, Max, to compete in the Creative Writing Contest. Max was the state gold medalist in the first grade "A" classification this year.
